DETAILED ACTION

Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 7/11/05.

Claims 1-6 are examined for examination purpose.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Minamino et al [USPAT 6,619,859].

Minamino discloses an optical module comprising:

An optical subassembly 10 including an optical device;

A housing including a base 13 and a cover 12 [fig. 11A], the base 13 having a bottom surface thereof, and the optical subassembly being provided between the base 13 and the cover 12;

A support 5 being in contact with the optical subassembly 10, the support 5 being disposed on the bottom surface of the base 13; and

A thermal sheet 6 provided between the cover 12 and the support 5.

Minamino disclose every aspect of claimed invention except for the semiconductor material.

Official Notice is taken that utilizing semiconductor material for optical module in the optical communication system for the purpose of high speed of the optical communication is old and well known in the art. See In Re Malcolm 1942 C.D. 589:543 O.G. 440 MPEP 706.02 (a).

Art Unit: 2874

Therefore, it would have been obvious to the ordinary skilled person in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Minamino's device to include semiconductor optical module for the purpose of high speed of the system.

In re claim 2, the support 5 includes a first leg portion, a second leg portion, and a bridge, wherein the cover 12 and the bridge sandwiches the thermal sheet therebetween, and the optical subassembly 10 is provided between the first and the second leg portions.

In re claim 3, Minamino disclose every aspect of claimed invention except for the solders between the optical subassembly and the first and second leg portions.

It would have been obvious to the ordinary skilled person in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Minamino's device to include the solders between the optical subassembly and the first and second leg portions for the purpose of stable alignment and high coupling efficiency of the device.

In re claim 4, the optical subassembly 10 includes an outer surface and a stem, and the support 5 having finger 5d [fig. 4] curved [inherently formed by having a groove 5f] so as to be in contact with the outer surface of the stem.

In re claim 5, the outer surface of the 10b is spaced from the bridge [the edge whereon the leg portions 5cs are disposed, see fig. 5, near 5j].

In re claim 6, Minamino disclose every aspect of claimed invention except for the solders between the stem and the finger.

It would have been obvious to the ordinary skilled person in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Minamino's device to include the solders between the stem and the finger for the purpose of stable alignment and high coupling efficiency of the device.
